-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Brawne (U.S. 5,805,138). Referring to claim 1, Brawne discloses in figures 2a-2f, a base (216) a vertical member (202) disposed on the top of approximately the rear end of the base, the vertical member having first and second ends, with the first end adapted for mounting onto the base, wherein the vertical member is resistively flexible in the transverse axis, anterior-posterior axis, and longitudinal axis, a pair of arms disposed on the second end of the vertical member, wherein each arm has an end extending towards the front of the base, wherein the arms form a cradle, a hand grip, and a first sensor for sensing and transmitting signals in response to movement of the vertical member.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2-19 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brawne in view of Leatham (6,727,884). Referring to claims 2-9, Brawne teaches the claimed invention with the exception of various control buttons. Leatham teaches in an analogous device various buttons and corresponding sensors. Specifically, Leatham teaches a wheel, control button, throttle, and trigger. The feature of providing various user input buttons to the device of Brawne is considered obvious in view of the teachings of Leatham in order to provide a variety of user input buttons for various interface commands. Referring to claims 10-13, Brawne discloses the vertical member providing resistance to flexing movement, and further teaches a sensor sensing movement in the transverse, anterior-posterior, and longitudinal axes. Referring to claims 14-15, as best understood, the modified Brawne device suggests a feedback mechanism between the vertical member, the hand grip, and the user output via signal transmission.

5. Referring to claims 16-19, the modified Brawne device suggests the claimed method, as the method steps amount to providing the claimed structure as noted above.
